INTRODUCTION

The majority of court procedures for municipal courts are located in the Code of Criminal Procedure (C.C.P.). In fact, the Code of Criminal Procedure contains a specific chapter that provides procedures just for municipal and justice courts: Chapter 45. Not all of the procedures that municipal courts must follow in order to process and adjudicate cases, however, are found in Chapter 45. The rest of the code contains statutes that pertain specifically to other courts as well as statutes that apply to all courts.

In order to determine if a statute in the Code of Criminal Procedure applies to all courts or to a court other than a municipal court, clerks need a basic understanding of the Code Construction Act, which helps courts interpret statutes. This guide provides an overview of the Code of Criminal Procedure and the Code Construction Act.

PART 1

CODE CONSTRUCTION ACT—CHAPTER 311 OF THE GOVERNMENT CODE

A. Purpose

The Code Construction Act, found in Chapter 311 of the Government Code (G.C.), applies to all laws passed since the 60th Legislative Session, including amendments, repealed sections, revisions, or reenactments of all provisions of Texas statutes. The purpose of the Code Construction Act is to help courts ascertain and appropriately enforce the legislative intent of statutes. Courts do not have the power to legislate, but they do have a duty to adhere to statutory provisions and rules. The Code Construction Act helps courts reasonably construe statutes so that they implement procedures, follow rules, and properly handle cases in accordance with general principles of law.

B. Code Construction Act Rules

1. Words and Phrases

According to the Code Construction Act, words and phrases should be read in context and interpreted according to the rules of grammar and common usage. Words and phrases that have acquired a technical or particular meaning, whether by legislative definition or otherwise, are read to include that meaning. Sec. 311.011, G.C. Moreover, Article 3.01 of the Code of Criminal Procedure states that words, phrases, and terms used in the Code of Criminal Procedure are to be used and understood in typical common language, except where specifically defined.

2. Tense, Number, and Gender

When reading a statute, words in the present tense are intended to also include the future tense. Singular words includes the plural and vice versa. Words of one gender are also meant to include the other gender. Sec. 311.012, G.C.

3. Counting Days and Months

The general rules for the computation of time are explained below.

a. Days

When figuring a period of days, the first day is excluded and the last day is included. If the last day of any period is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period is extended to include the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. Sec. 311.014(a) and (b), G.C.

Some municipal court procedures, such as appeals, have time deadlines that require courts to consult Section 311.014 for instruction on counting time periods. For example, defendants convicted at trial in a non-record municipal court must file an appeal bond with the court within 10 days. The court would not count the first day—the day judgment was entered—but it would count the last day unless it fell on a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday. If it fell on one of those days, the 10 day period would be extended to include the next working day of the court.

For example, if the trial and conviction occurred and judgment was entered on a Wednesday, the 10th day would fall on a Saturday. Thus, the defendant would have until the following Monday to give notice of an appeal and post an appeal bond, except if Monday were a holiday, it would be extended to Tuesday.

b. Months

By contrast, when computing a number of months by counting a set number of months from a particular day, the period ends on the same numerical day of the final month as the day of the month from which the counting begins. If there are not that many days in the concluding month, then the period ends on the last day of the concluding month. Sec. 311.014(c), G.C.

4. Reference to a Series

If a statute refers to a series of numbers or letters, the first and last numbers or letters are included. Sec. 311.015, G.C.

5. Intention in Enactment of Statutes

In enacting a statute, it is presumed that:

- there is compliance with the U.S. and Texas Constitutions;
- the entire statute is intended to be effective;
- a just and reasonable result is intended;
- a result possible of execution is intended; and
- the public interest is favored over private interest. Sec. 311.021, G.C.

6. Statute Construction Aids

Section 311.023 provides that whether or not a statute appears on its face to be ambiguous, a court, when interpreting statutes, may consider among other matters the:

- object or purpose sought to be achieved;
- circumstances under which the statute was enacted;
- legislative history;

- common law or former statutory provisions, including laws on the same or similar subjects;
- consequences of a particular construction;
- administrative construction of the statute; and
- title (caption), preamble, and emergency provision.

However, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has repeatedly held that in discerning legislative intent or purpose, they focus on the literal text of the statute in question because “it is the only thing actually adopted by the legislators, probably through compromise, and submitted to the Governor for [his] signature.” Boykin v. State, 818 S.W.2d 782 (Tex. Crim. App. 1991). The Court held that “although Section 311.023 of the Government Code invites, but does not require, courts to consider extra-textual factors when the statutes in question are not ambiguous, such an invitation should be declined.” Under this line of reasoning, the Court of Criminal Appeals will only look to the factors described by Section 311.023 if the statute in question is ambiguous.

7. Statute Heading

When researching a particular topic in any code, the chapter, article, and section headings can aid in finding certain information. The title headings, however, are not intended to limit or expand the meaning of a statute. Sec. 311.024, G.C. For example, Article 27.14 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is titled “Plea of Guilty or Nolo Contendere in Misdemeanor.” The heading seems to imply that only rules on those particular pleas are contained in the statute, yet the statute also provides guidance on the filing of a sworn complaint when a plea of not guilty is entered.

8. Severability of Statutes

Severability provisions, or savings clauses, save part of a statute when other parts are declared unconstitutional. Section 311.032 provides that “if a statute contains a provision for severability, that provision prevails in interpreting that statute.” Therefore, should a court declare part of a statute containing a severability provision unconstitutional, the other parts would still be valid if they are self-sustaining and capable of separate enforcement without regard to the invalid portion. Some statutes have a provision for non-severability, which means that if part of the statute is declared unconstitutional, the whole statute is invalid. Other statutes do not contain severability clauses. If any provision of one of those statutes or their application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the statute if the provisions can be effective without the invalid provisions or application. Sec. 311.032(c), G.C. Hence, the provisions of those statutes that are not held invalid are severable.

An example where a court declared a whole act unconstitutional is Meshel v. State, 739 S.W.2d 246 (Tex. Crim. App. 1987). This case held that the “Speedy Trial Act” (Chapter 32A of the Code of Criminal Procedure) was entirely unconstitutional. Hence, no portion of Chapter 32A could be enforced. Eighteen years later, in 2005, the Legislature finally repealed Chapter 32A. It should be noted, however, that municipal court defendants still have a constitutional right to a speedy trial.

Since case law interprets statutes or declares statutes or portions of statutes unconstitutional, it is important to research all sources of law when trying to determine how to interpret or apply a certain statute.

9. Latest in Date of Enactment

The Legislature has the opportunity to change all codes, including the Code of Criminal Procedure and Penal Code, each time it convenes. If two laws conflict, but one is more recent than the other, the more recent law applies. Sec. 311.025(a), G.C. This is referred to as the “date rule.”

If amendments to the same statute are enacted at the same session, the amendments shall be harmonized if possible so that effect may be given to each. If the amendments are irreconcilable, the latest in date of enactment prevails. Sec. 311.025(b), G.C.

Thus, as entire statutes are intended to be effective and a result feasible of execution is intended, courts should first attempt to reconcile amendments. If the statutes or amendments are so conflicting that they cannot be harmonized, then courts must look to the date of enactment to determine which statute/amendment prevails. Generally, the date of enactment is the date on which the last legislative vote is taken on the bill. Sec. 311.025(d), G.C. Conflicting statutes and amendments are not a rarity; there is a need to determine the latest in date of enactment between conflicting bills almost every session.

10. General vs. Specific Statutes

General statutes are ones that apply to all courts unless there is a specific statute that makes an exception. Article 45.002 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides that municipal court proceedings are to be conducted according the rules in Chapter 45. If, however, there is not a rule in Chapter 45 that applies, the court must apply other general provisions in the Code of Criminal Procedure to ensure that the objectives of Chapter 45 are met. Within Chapter 45 or even outside of the Code of Criminal Procedure altogether, whenever two provisions seem to cover the same topic and one is specific to municipal court, the court must follow the specific provision. Section 311.026(a) provides that if a general provision conflicts with a special or local provision, the provisions shall be interpreted, if possible, to give effect to both. But, if the conflict is irreconcilable, the special or local provision prevails as an exception to the general provision. Sec. 311.026(b), G.C. This is referred to as the “rule of the specific.”

The following list gives examples of this “rule of the specific” using Chapter 45 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and its rules that apply specifically to municipal courts but not to county or requesting courts.

- Articles 27.01 and 45.018 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provide rules regarding charging instruments. Article 27.01 states that the primary pleading (charge) in a criminal action by the State is the indictment or information. Article 45.018 provides that a complaint is a sworn allegation charging the accused with the commission of an offense. Since Article 45.018 is located in the specific chapter for municipal and justice courts, municipal court defendants are charged by complaint instead of by indictment or by information.

- Articles 45.019(b) and 45.019(c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure provide rules regarding complaints. Article 45.019(b) provides that a complaint filed in justice courts must allege that the offense was committed in the county in which the complaint was made. Article 45.019(c) provides that a complaint filed in municipal courts must allege that an offense occurred in the territorial limits of the city.
- Article 35.15(c) and 45.029 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provide rules on peremptory challenges. Article 35.15(c) provides that in misdemeanor cases both the State and the defendant are entitled to five peremptory challenges each. Article 45.029, however, provides that the State and defendant are each entitled to three peremptory challenges in municipal court jury trials. Because the latter provision is located in Chapter 45, it controls in municipal courts.
- Articles 35.01 and 45.027(c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure provide rules regarding a juror’s failure to appear. Article 35.01 provides for a fine not less than $100 or more than $500. Article 45.027(c) provides for a fine not to exceed $100. Because the latter provision is located in Chapter 45, municipal courts must follow it.
- Articles 35.23 and 45.034 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provide rules for juries. Article 35.23 provides authority for a court to permit jurors to separate before a verdict in a misdemeanor. Article 45.034 states that a jury in municipal court is to be kept together until it agrees to a verdict, is discharged, or the court recesses.
- Section 311.014 of the Government Code and Article 45.013 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provide rules for computation of time. Section 311.014 states that the computation of time does not exclude Saturdays, Sundays, or legal holidays unless the last day of the period falls on one of those days. Municipal courts, however, have a specific provision regarding the filing of documents by mail. Article 45.013 provides that a document is timely filed if it is mailed first class in a postage prepaid envelope properly addressed to the clerk on or before the date the document is required to be filed. The clerk must receive the document within 10 days after the date the document is required to be filed with the clerk. Article 45.013 defines “day” to not include Saturdays, Sundays, or legal holidays. That specific provision prevails for items received by mail.
- Section 38.10 of the Penal Code [Failure to Appear (FTA)] creates an offense for defendants who fail to appear to answer for a criminal charge, assuming additional elements are met, while Section 543.009 of the Transportation Code [Violate Promise to Appear (VPTA)] creates an offense for defendants who fail to appear to answer for a Rules of the Road offense. As VPTA is a more specific charge, if the defendant could be charged with VPTA, then the defendant must be charged with that specific offense over the general offense of FTA.

An example of a general statute is Article 35.16 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which provides reasons for why a judge may grant a motion to remove a juror for cause. This statute does not state specifically that it applies to all courts, but because Chapter 45 does not provide specific rules for municipal courts on this subject, Article 35.16 applies to municipal courts.

Another example of a general statute is Article 17.38 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which states that the rules in Chapter 17 (regarding appearance bonds) apply to any court, judge, magistrate, or other officer who requires bail of a person accused of an offense or of a witness in a criminal action. Since Chapter 45 does not contain specific rules for setting appearance bonds, municipal judges must use Chapter 17 rules for setting bonds. Chapter 45 does, however, have specific rules regarding appeal bonds for convictions being appealed from municipal court.

PART 2 CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

A. Introduction to the Code of Criminal Procedure

The Code of Criminal Procedure is a collection of statutes governing procedures in criminal investigations and trials. Texas criminal cases have been conducted using a code of procedure since 1925. Throughout the years, the Texas Legislature has added new rules, changed existing rules, and repealed rules. In 1965, the Legislature restructured previous codes and created the Code of Criminal Procedure, and the basic format has remained the same since. The present code constitutes the law that must be applied in criminal cases, including Class C misdemeanor cases in municipal courts.

Article 1.03 sets out the code’s intent, provides objectives, and establishes rules for the prevention and prosecution of crimes in Texas. The objectives seek to provide the following:

- adopt measures to prevent crime;

- create rules to prevent criminals from escaping;
- set out trial procedures;
- make available as much evidence as possible;
- guarantee guidelines for fair and impartial trials; and
- provide rules to make sure sentences are properly executed.

The code is divided into two parts, which are further divided into chapters and articles containing definitions, procedures, and rules pertaining to investigations, trials, and appeals. The code applies to criminal cases in all criminal courts, the Court of Criminal Appeals, the courts of appeal, district courts, county courts, county courts at law with criminal jurisdiction, county criminal courts, magistrates appointed in certain counties, justice of the peace courts, and municipal courts. Art. 4.01, C.C.P.

B. Structure of the Code of Criminal Procedure

The Code of Criminal Procedure is divided into two parts—Title I and Title 2.

1. Title I

The specific provisions of Title I are listed here by chapter groupings.

- Introductory Provisions (Chapters 1-3): These chapters list objectives of the code; defendants’ rights; duties of peace officers, prosecutors, magistrates, investigators, and clerks; and other general provisions, including those on racial profiling.
- Courts and Criminal Jurisdiction (Chapter 4): This chapter lists the criminal courts, along with crimes that may be tried in each court. Municipal court jurisdiction is found in Article 4.14.
- Prevention and Suppression of Crimes (Chapters 5-10): These chapters involve family violence and protective orders, peace bonds, suppression of riots, and obstructions of public highways.

- Habeas Corpus (Chapter 11): This chapter contains provisions relating to writs of habeas corpus, which are issued when someone is held in jail or under restraint without adequate probable cause.
- Limitation and Venue (Chapters 12 and 13): These chapters provide time periods, or limitations, by which a person must be charged with an offense as well as provisions on venue, which is the location where a particular offense must be prosecuted. The time limitation is commonly called the “statute of limitations.”
- Arrest, Commitment, and Bail (Chapters 14-17): These chapters govern arrests without warrants, arrests with warrants, examining trials, magistrate warnings, and bail.
- Corporations and Associations (Chapter 17A): This chapter discusses the criminal responsibility of corporations and associations.
- Search Warrants (Chapter 18): This chapter contains rules relating to search warrants, including blood draws. There are also specific provisions for disposing of abandoned or unclaimed property, paraphernalia, and weapons.
- After Commitment or Bail and Before the Trial (Chapters 19-31): These chapters contain provisions relating to grand juries; indictments and information; bond forfeitures; capiases, summons, subpoenas, and writs of attachment; arraignment; pleadings in a criminal case, including the defendant’s plea and any motions; continuances; and venue changes.
- Trial and Its Incidents (Chapters 32-39): These chapters contain provisions about trials, including whether a defendant must be present for trial, bail during trial, the criminal docket, and special rules relating to capital murder cases. Also included in these chapters are rules concerning the formation of the jury, such as qualifications of a juror, who may be excused, and how voir dire (jury selection) should be conducted. Chapter 32 contains provisions on the dismissal of cases. Chapter 36 contains provisions for trial procedures, including order of argument, jury charge, and jury deliberations. Chapter 37 contains rules about the verdict. Chapter 38 contains evidence rules applicable to criminal cases. (A separate collection of rules called the Texas Rules of Evidence also applies to criminal trials.) Chapter 39 contains rules for taking depositions and handling motions for discovery.
- Proceedings after the Verdict (Chapters 40-43): These chapters contain rules for handling motions for new trial, judgments, pronouncing sentences, adult probation laws, and execution of the judgment by paying of fines or imprisonment.
- Appeal and Writ of Error (Chapter 44): This chapter contains rules for appeals, which includes some rules for municipal court appeals, though most rules governing municipal court appeals are in Chapter 45.
- Justice and Municipal Courts (Chapter 45): This chapter provides specific rules for justice and municipal courts. It includes rules for complaints, warrants, docketing, pleas, trials, judgments, new trials, appeals, capias pro fines, deferred disposition, driving safety courses, and special handling provisions for persons under the age of 17. Clerks should become familiar with this chapter and always look first to Chapter 45 when researching any municipal court procedure.

- Miscellaneous Proceedings (Chapters 46-64): These chapters contain provisions not usually affecting municipal courts, including: the defense of insanity; incompetence to stand trial; disposition of stolen property; forfeiture of contraband; criminal history record system; pardons and parole; inquests; fugitives from justice; courts of inquiry; gang, sex offender, and missing persons/children databases; and AIDS/HIV and DNA testing. Chapter 55 provides for expunction rights in district courts. Chapter 56 provides for the rights and compensation of victims of crime, while Chapters 57, 57A, 57B, 57C, and 57D provide for confidentiality of sex offense, family violence, child, and human trafficking victims.

2. Title 2

Title 2 contains four chapters—101 through 104. These chapters relate to costs, collection of costs, recordkeeping, and private and public vendor collection contracts. Some provisions relate directly to justice court and municipal courts.

- General Provisions (Chapter 101): This chapter contains the purpose of Title 2, provides that the Code Construction Act applies to the construction of Title 2, and general provisions about references to chapters and articles.
- Costs Paid by Defendants (Chapter 102): This chapter provides for fees and certain court costs. Not all the fees are applicable to municipal courts, but the following fees are:
  - fees for services of peace officers (Articles 102.001 and 102.011);
  - jury fees (Articles 102.004 and 102.0045);
  - fees in expunction proceedings (Article 102.006);
  - Child Safety Fund (Article 102.014);
  - Building Security Fund (Article 102.017);
  - Technology Fund (Article 102.0172); and
  - Juvenile Case Manager Fund (Article 102.0174).
- Collection and Recordkeeping (Chapter 103): This chapter contains provisions for the collection and recordkeeping of certain court costs. It provides authority for a municipality to enter into a contract for collection of fines, fees, restitution, and failures to appear that are more than 60 days past due. The chapter also requires cities with populations of 100,000 or greater to develop and implement a collection improvement program. This initiative is monitored by the Office of Court Administration, and is designed to improve court collections.
- Certain Expenses Paid by State or County (Chapter 104): This chapter provides for paying certain jury, prisoner, and prosecution expenses. This chapter does not apply to municipal courts.

C. Provisions that Apply to Municipal Courts

Although there are many provisions discussed throughout the chapters in this study guide, the following is a succinct summary of some of the pertinent statutes in the Code of Criminal Procedure that apply to municipal courts.

1. Public Servants

Article 3.04(2) defines public servants by referring to the definition located in Section 1.07 of the Penal Code, which states that a public servant is a person who is elected, selected, appointed, or employed even if he or she has not yet qualified for office or assumed his or her duties and includes:

- an officer, employee, or agent of the government;
- a juror or grand juror;
- an arbitrator, referee, or other person who is authorized by law or private written agreement to hear or determine a cause or controversy;
- an attorney at law or notary public when performing duties of a governmental function;
- a candidate for nomination or election to public office; or
- a person who is performing a governmental function under a claim of right although he or she is not legally qualified to do so.

Since municipal judges, court clerks, and deputy court clerks are elected, appointed, or employed by a governmental agency, they are public servants.

2. Jurisdiction

Jurisdiction is a court's legal power or authority over certain geographical areas and certain crimes. The municipal courts' jurisdiction is defined in Articles 4.14 and 4.16. Article 4.15 provides that the municipal court may sit at any time to try a criminal case in its jurisdiction.

3. Rights of All Defendants

Municipal court defendants have the same rights as defendants charged in any criminal court in Texas. The following is a listing of some of those rights in the Code of Criminal Procedure.

- Article 1.05: Rights of the Accused. All municipal court defendants have:
  - the right to a speedy public trial by an impartial jury;
  - the right to know the nature and cause of the accusation against them and to have a copy of the complaint;
  - the right not to give evidence against themselves;
  - the right of being heard;
  - the right to be confronted with witnesses against them; and
  - the right to compulsory process (subpoenas) for obtaining witnesses in their favor.
- Article 1.051: Right to Representation by Counsel. All defendants have the right to be represented by counsel, which includes the right to consult in private with counsel sufficiently in advance of a proceeding to allow adequate preparation for the proceeding. An indigent defendant is entitled to have an attorney appointed to represent him or her in any adversarial judicial proceeding that may result in punishment by confinement or in any other criminal proceeding if the court concludes it is in the interest of justice. Thus, municipal court defendants are entitled to hire and consult with counsel and have representation, but are not entitled to appointed counsel. The court may, however, appoint counsel for an indigent defendant if the interest of justice requires representation.
- Article 1.06: Searches and Seizures. No warrant to seize any person shall issue without probable cause supported by oath or affirmation.
- Article 1.07: Right to Bail. All prisoners shall be bailable unless for capital offenses when the proof is evident. Thus, all municipal court defendants have a right to bail.
- Article 1.09: Cruelty Forbidden. The judge cannot require excessive bail or impose excessive fines.
- Article 1.10: Jeopardy. No person may be tried twice for the same offense after a verdict of not guilty in a court of competent jurisdiction. This is called double jeopardy.
- Article 1.12: Right to a Jury. The right of a trial by jury shall remain inviolate. Inviolable means that the right cannot be violated and is free from any impairment. Thus, municipal court defendants have a right to a jury trial.
- Article 1.24: Public Trial. The proceedings and trials in all courts shall be public.

4. Persons Under the Age of 17

Chapter 45 contains many statutes that apply to defendants under the age of 17.

- Article 45.0215 requires the court to summon the parent, guardian, or managing conservator and have him or her appear in court with their child who is younger than 17 years of age.
- Article 45.0216 requires courts to admonish persons under the age of 17 charged with a penal offense of their right to expunction and give a copy of the statute to the child and parent.
- Article 45.050 provides proceedings for persons under the age of 17 who fail to pay a judgment or violate a court order to be held in contempt.
- Article 45.056 allows municipal courts, with the consent of the city council, to employ a juvenile case manager.
- Article 45.057 provides rehabilitative sanctions that the court may require of a person under the age of 17 upon conviction.
- Article 45.058 provides rules for taking children into custody.
- Article 45.059 provides rules for taking children into custody who are in violation of a juvenile curfew order.

5. Citations and Complaints

Complaint is defined in Article 45.018 as a sworn allegation charging the accused with the commission of an offense. The complaint charging a Class C misdemeanor may be presented within two years from the date of the commission of the offense and not afterward. Art. 12.02(b), C.C.P. This is called the statute of limitations.

Article 1.05 states that defendants have a right to know the nature and cause of an accusation against them and to have a copy of the complaint. Article 45.018 provides that a defendant in municipal or justice court is entitled to notice of a complaint not later than the day before any proceeding in the prosecution. The defendant, however, may waive the right to notice.

Article 45.019 states that a complaint “is sufficient without regard to its form if it substantially satisfies the requisites of Article 45.019. . . .” Clerks should rely on the prosecutor to draft the wording and form of complaints. If a defendant does not object to defects in the complaint before the date in which the trial on the merits commences, the defendant waives and forfeits the right to object to the defect. Art. 45.019(f), C.C.P.

A written notice, or citation, may be accepted to serve as the complaint to which a defendant can plead guilty, nolo contendere, or not guilty. Art. 27.14(d), C.C.P. The defendant must have been given a legible duplicate copy of the citation. If a defendant pleads not guilty, a sworn complaint must be filed unless the defendant and prosecutor agree to go to trial on the written notice (citation). The agreement must be in writing and filed with the court.

The provision authorizing a peace officer to issue a citation to an offender in lieu of taking the person before the magistrate is Article 14.06(b). Certain information must be included in the wording of the citation. Special provisions exist for officers releasing an individual detained for public intoxication. Art. 14.031, C.C.P.

6. Docket

Article 45.017 requires each judge or clerk, if directed by the judge, to keep a docket and enter certain proceedings in the docket. A docket is a formal record with brief entries of the proceedings in a case. Articles 45.017(b) and 45.012(b)(3) provide authority for courts to maintain a docket by electronic means.

7. Pleas and Appearances

Appearance is a proceeding in which a defendant submits to the jurisdiction of the court by entering a plea. Further court proceedings depend on the plea entered. The following Code of Criminal Procedure statutes indicate how defendants may make appearances to enter a plea.

- Article 45.021 provides that all pleadings in municipal courts may be oral or in writing as the “court may direct.”
- Article 45.0215 requires persons under 17 to enter a plea in person in open court with a parent, guardian, or managing conservator. It also provides that a person under 17 may enter a plea, with permission of the judge of the court of original jurisdiction, in the county where the juvenile lives.
- Article 45.023 provides that a defendant may enter a plea of guilty, nolo contendere, not guilty, or a special plea after a jury is empaneled or after the defendant has waived trial by jury. Judges may also permit a defendant who is detained in jail to enter a plea; however, if the defendant who enters a plea in jail makes a motion for new trial not later than 10 days after judgment is entered, the judge shall grant the motion.
- Articles 27.14(a), (b), and (c) provide rules for making an appearance and for entering pleas of guilty or nolo contendere.
  - Subsection (a) provides that a defendant or his or her counsel may make a plea of guilty or nolo contendere in open court. Subsection (b) provides that in cases of fine-only misdemeanors, defendants may mail or deliver in person a plea of guilty or nolo contendere and a waiver of jury trial to the court. Article 45.013, the “Mailbox Rule,” provides rules for handling documents filed with the court through mail. The Mailbox Rule establishes when a document is considered timely filed with the clerk. It says that once a document is mailed on or before the due date and the clerk receives it not later than the 10th day after the required filing date, it is considered timely filed.
  - Subsection (c) of Article 27.14 permits a defendant to pay a fine and costs without entering a plea. If the court accepts the amount offered by the defendant, it constitutes a finding of guilty in open court as though a plea of nolo contendere had been entered by the defendant. The payment also constitutes a written waiver of jury trial. The payments may be made in open court, mailed to the court, or delivered in person to the court as provided for in subsections (a) and (b) of Article 27.14.
- Article 27.16 provides that a plea of not guilty may be made orally by the defendant or by his or her counsel in open court. In fine-only misdemeanors, the defendant may also mail to the court a plea of not guilty.

- Article 45.024 requires a judge to enter a not guilty plea when a defendant refuses to plea.

8. Warrant, Capias, and Summons

Article 45.014 states that when a written and sworn complaint or affidavit based on probable cause is filed with the court, the judge may issue a warrant for the arrest of the accused. Article 45.014 also provides requirements for the form of the warrant issued under Chapter 45. This statute is the authority for judges to issue warrants for defendants charged in the judge's court.

Article 2.09 lists Texas magistrates and the list includes municipal judges. Chapter 15 provides authority for a magistrate to issue a warrant of arrest for all classifications of offenses. The chapter also provides requirements for a warrant of arrest issued by a magistrate. Because municipal judges are magistrates, they have additional authority to issue this type of warrant, in their capacity as magistrates.

A capias is a written order issued by a judge of a court having jurisdiction of a case after commitment or bail and before trial. Art. 23.01, C.C.P. The rules for issuing a capias are included in Chapters 23 and 43. Article 23.05 requires the court to issue a capias for a defendant when a bail forfeiture is declared.

Article 23.04 provides that a court, instead of issuing a capias, may issue a summons. The summons must be in the same form as a capias except that it shall summon the defendant to appear before the court at a stated time and place. Before a summons can be issued, the prosecutor must request that it be issued. Art. 23.04, C.C.P. Chapter 23 also provides procedures for serving a summons. Chapter 15 provides authority for a magistrate to issue a summons instead of a warrant.

Article 45.202 states that all process issuing out of a municipal court shall be served when directed by the court by a peace officer or marshal of the municipality within which it is situated, under the same rules as are provided by law for the service by sheriffs and constables of process issuing out of the justice court, so far as applicable. Subsection (b) of Article 45.202 states that a peace officer or marshal may serve all process issuing out of a municipal court anywhere in the county in which the city, town, or village is situated. If a city is situated in more than one county, the city police officer or marshal may serve the process throughout those counties.

The following Code of Criminal Procedure statutes address when warrant fees may be assessed.

- Article 45.203 provides for a fee of up to $25 for issuance and service of a warrant if the city establishes the fee by ordinance. The fee may only be assessed if the offense for which the warrant was issued is violation of promise to appear or failure to appear.
- Article 102.011(a)(2) requires courts to collect a $50 warrant fee for the services of a peace officer either executing or processing a warrant, capias, or capias pro fine.
- Article 102.011(a)(4) requires a $35 fee for serving a writ not otherwise listed, which would include the fee for the service of a summons for a defendant or for the parents of a juvenile.

9. Bail

Chapter 17 defines bail as the security given by the accused guaranteeing his or her appearance before the proper court to answer the accusations against him or her and includes a bail bond or a personal bond. Article 17.15 provides rules for setting bail. Article 17.38 states that the rules in Chapter 17 are applicable to all courts, judges, magistrates, or other officers who require bail.

If there is a personal bond office in the county from which the warrant for arrest was issued, the court releasing a defendant on his or her personal bond must forward a copy of the bond to the personal bond office in that county. Art. 17.031(b), C.C.P.

Article 4.14 provides authority for municipal courts to forfeit the bail of defendants charged in their courts.

Chapter 22 requires courts to forfeit bail when defendants fail to appear and provides procedures for forfeiting bail. These procedures apply to surety, cash, and personal bonds.

Article 45.044 provides an alternate method of forfeiting a cash bond. It states that a judge may enter a judgment of conviction and forfeit a cash bond for fine and costs. To engage these procedures, the defendant must have entered a written and signed conditional plea of nolo contendere and a waiver of jury trial and failed to appear according to the terms of release.

10. Pre-Trial

Article 28.01 states that a court may set any criminal case for a pre-trial hearing before it is set for trial upon its merits. See Chapter 28 for specific time requirements for notification and other procedures.

11. Trial Processes

a. Subpoenas

A subpoena is the process issued by a court to summons a witness to testify before the court in a criminal action. Because defendants have a right to subpoena witnesses, there is no discretion in issuing subpoenas. Edmondson v. State, 43 Tex. 230 (1875). Thus, municipal court clerks may issue subpoenas. The court may subpoena a parent or guardian to bring a child witness to court. A subpoena duces tecum requires that a witness bring to court some instrument, written document, or other tangible item desired as evidence. For more information on subpoenas, see Chapter 24.

b. Continuances

The defendant or the State may request that the court postpone the case to a later date. Continuances may be granted if the trial falls on a religious holy day, by agreement in open court, or upon written motion stating a reason for the request. A defendant can request a continuance for any reason. Chapter 29 provides rules for requesting, granting, or denying continuances.

12. Judgment

The judgment, in a fine-only misdemeanor case, is the written declaration of the court signed by the trial judge ordering the defendant to pay a fine and certain costs to the State, or do some other sanction as authorized by law. The requirements for the judgment are generally contained in Article 42.01 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

a. Fine, Costs, and Restitution

When a defendant is found guilty in municipal court, the court will order the defendant to pay a fine and certain costs to the State. In addition, the court may require restitution at any amount, except for the offense of issuance of bad check in which case the maximum amount of restitution is $5,000. Art. 45.041, C.C.P. Article 42.037 provides that a court may require a defendant to pay a one-time restitution fee of $12 if restitution is paid in installments. Of the $12 fee, the court retains $6 and pays $6 to the Crime Victims' Compensation Fund. The court may also require the defendant to pay restitution into the Crime Victims' Compensation Fund directly if the Fund has already paid assistance to the victim.

Article 45.041 provides authority for a judge to require payment of fines and costs immediately, at a later date, or in intervals. If the judge determines that the defendant is unable to immediately pay the fine and costs, the judge shall allow the defendant the opportunity to pay in intervals. Art. 45.041(b-2), C.C.P.

b. Rendered in Open Court and Signed

Article 45.041 requires all judgments, sentences, and final orders of the judge be rendered in open court. Article 42.01 defines a judgment as the written declaration of the court signed by the trial judge. Article 45.012 provides that an electronically recorded judgment has the same force and effect as a written signed judgment. A document which must contain the signature of any person, including a judge, clerk of the court, or defendant, is satisfied if the document contains the signature as captured by an electronic device.

c. Jail-Time Credit

The judge must credit a defendant for time served in jail on that charge. Arts. 42.03 and 45.041, C.C.P. This includes time served in jail from the time of arrest to conviction and time served after conviction. Art. 45.041(c), C.C.P.

For offenses that occur after January 1, 2004, the rate of credit is not less than $50 for a period of time specified in the judgment. "Period of time" is defined to be not less than eight hours or more than 24 hours. Arts. 45.041 and 45.048, C.C.P. When a judge enters judgment, he or she must specify the amount of time that the defendant must serve to receive jail credit at the specified rate.

As custodians of the records, court clerks should properly record jail-time credit. In some instances, jail-time credit may have been the method of discharging the total fine; in others, it may be just part of the fine. If a defendant does not pay any money to the court because he or she had sufficient jail-time credit to cover both the fine and court costs, the Comptroller does not require the court to remit court costs that were not collected.

13. Appeal

Article 44.02 states that a defendant in any criminal action has the right of appeal. Article 45.042 states that municipal court appeals shall be heard by the county court except in cases where the county court has no jurisdiction. In those counties, the appeal would be to the proper appellate court.

In courts of non-record, the appeal is trial de novo (a new trial). In municipal courts of record, the appeal is based on the transcript taken at the trial court. Art. 44.17, C.C.P.

Article 45.0425 provides rules for setting the amount of an appeal bond. Articles 27.14(b) and 45.026 provide time deadlines for filing an appeal bond with non-record municipal courts. Defendants appearing in open court must file an appeal bond within 10 days after the date judgment is entered. Adult defendants appearing by mail or delivering a plea and waiver of jury trial to the court must file an appeal bond before the 31st day after receiving notice of the amount of fine and appeal bond. This provision allows an adult defendant to bypass a trial in a non-record municipal court without ever making a personal appearance in court. Remember also, the Mailbox Rule, which extends the time by an additional 10 working days for documents filed by mail.

The rules and deadlines for appeals from courts of record are found in Chapter 30 of the Government Code.

Article 44.18 states that all the original papers of a case must go to the appellate court. Article 44.281 states that when a case is affirmed (municipal court of record appeals), the fine imposed on appeal and the costs imposed on appeal shall be collected from the defendant and paid into the municipal treasury. There is no statute providing that the fine money collected on a de novo appeal from a non-record municipal court be remitted to the city.

14. Collection and Enforcement of the Judgment

a. Community Service

Article 45.049 states that a judge may require a defendant who fails to pay a previously assessed fine or costs or who is determined by the court to have insufficient resources or income to pay a fine or costs, to discharge the judgment by performing community service. The article also provides rules for the judge's community service order, types of community service allowed, amount to be credited to the fine, and immunity for the judge and other court employees. The order must specify the number of hours required to be performed, but it does not have to provide a specific non-profit or governmental agency or project.

A defendant is considered to have discharged not less than $50 of fines or costs for each eight hours of community service performed. Other provisions—both versions of Article 45.0492—govern community service for defendants younger than 17 years of age.

b. Indigency Hearing

When a defendant has been arrested for defaulting in payment of a fine, the court must determine the defendant's ability to pay the fine and costs. Arts. 45.046 and 45.048, C.C.P. The court may also require a defendant who failed to pay a previously assessed fine or who is indigent to discharge the responsibility by performing community service. Art. 45.049, C.C.P.

Article 45.0491 gives a judge authority to waive a fine and court costs after a defendant defaults in payment of the fine or costs if the defendant is indigent and performing community service would cause an undue hardship. This procedure requires an indigency hearing.

c. Civil Execution

Article 45.047 provides authority for the judge to order a fine and costs to be collected by execution against the defendant's property in the same manner as a judgment in a civil suit. This court order is called a writ of execution.

d. Capias Pro Fine and Default in Payment of Fine

A capias pro fine is a written order of the court. Article 45.045 provides authority for a municipal judge to issue a capias pro fine for the judgment if a defendant is not in custody when the judgment is rendered or if the defendant fails to satisfy a judgment. The capias pro fine must state the amount of the judgment and sentence.

Article 45.046 says when a defendant defaults in payment of fine, the court may order the defendant confined to jail if the judge determines that the defendant is not indigent and that the defendant failed to make a good faith effort to discharge the judgment.

15. Alternative Sentencing

a. Deferred Disposition

Article 45.051 provides judges with discretion to grant deferred disposition. A defendant must plea guilty or nolo contendere or be found guilty before a judge may grant it. When granted an order of deferred disposition, the judge places a defendant on probation for a period of time, not to exceed 180 days, and sets forth terms that the defendant must comply within that time period. If the defendant successfully completes the probationary terms, the case is dismissed. The judge has broad discretion in most cases regarding the conditions of the deferred disposition. Among those conditions, the judge can order the defendant to pay a special expense fee, pay restitution, submit to counseling, attend a class, or comply with any reasonable condition imposed by the judge. Art. 45.051(a-1), C.C.P. There are a few instances where the judge, when granting a deferred disposition, does not have discretion over some of the probationary conditions which must be satisfied; for example, a judge is required to have a defendant under the age of 25 years, charged with committing a moving violation, take a driving safety course. Art. 45.051(b-1), C.C.P.

b. Driving Safety Courses

Article 45.0511 provides that if defendants charged with traffic offenses meet certain criteria, they have a right to take a driving safety course or a motorcycle operator course to get the charge dismissed. The defendant has 90 days to complete a course and present the court with evidence of completion, a certified copy of his or her driving record from DPS that shows he or she was eligible, and an affidavit.

c. Teen Court

Article 45.052 provides a judge discretion to grant teen court to a defendant who meets criteria established by the statute.

16. Magistrates

Article 2.09 lists persons who are magistrates. Included in that list are municipal judges and mayors. Being a magistrate increases the authority of municipal judges. The authority of a magistrate is countywide while a municipal judge’s jurisdiction only extends to the territorial limits of the city and to property owned by the city in the city’s extra-territorial jurisdiction. The following is a list of some of the statutes contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure providing for magistrate duties that municipal judges as magistrates may perform:

- issue peace bonds (Chapter 7);
- accept complaints and issue warrants for Class A and B misdemeanors and felonies (Chapter 15);
- inform defendants of their rights regardless of the classification of the offense (commonly called magistration) (Article 15.17);
- conduct examining trials (for the purpose of determining probable cause in a felony) (Chapter 16);
- set bail (Chapter 17);
- issue orders of emergency protection (Article 17.292);
- issue search warrants (Chapter 18); and
- issue a warrant for a fugitive from justice from another state (Chapter 51).

D. Conclusion of the Code of Criminal Procedure

The Code of Criminal Procedure sets out procedural rules to be applied in all criminal cases. Chapter 45 governs proceedings in justice and municipal courts and takes precedence over other rules that apply to criminal proceedings generally or to rules applicable to other misdemeanor or felony proceedings. Article 45.002 says that proceedings in municipal court must be conducted in accordance with Chapter 45 rules and that if the chapter does not provide a rule, the judge shall apply the other general provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Although, reason must be used to determine how to find information, the rules expressed in this part of the study guide should help provide a road map to finding procedures applicable to municipal courts.

PART 3 PENAL CODE

A. Introduction to the Penal Code

The Penal Code is a collection of statutes defining criminal offenses and setting penalties. Texas has had a penal code since the late 1880s. In 1925, the criminal offenses were gathered into a code that was used until 1973. In that year, the old code was re-codified and the offenses were re-arranged into a new code called the Penal Code. The format set out in the 1973 version has remained unchanged by the Legislature, although some offenses have been modified, repealed, or added.

Just as in the Code of Criminal Procedure, the Penal Code has a statement of objectives in the first section, which includes the following goals:

- to ensure public safety through deterrence, rehabilitation of offenders, and punishment of those who commit offenses;
- to define and grade offenses so citizens will know what they can and cannot do;
- to define punishments appropriate for each particular offense;
- to safeguard innocent conduct;
- to guide law enforcement officials; and
- to make the criminal laws apply to everyone in the same way.

These objectives explain the intent of the Legislature to prevent crime through deterrence and punishment and limit the power of the State from interfering too much with innocent citizens.

B. Structure of the Penal Code

The Penal Code is divided into 11 titles that are further divided into chapters, subchapters, and sections. Generally, the Penal Code contains offenses, definitions, procedures, defenses, and exceptions. The following is a list of major topics in the Penal Code, divided by title and chapter.

- Title 1. Introductory Provisions
  - Chapter 1: Contains the objectives of the Penal Code; the territorial jurisdiction of this State concerning where offenses are committed in order to be prosecuted in Texas; construction of the Penal Code; and basic definitions of terms used in the code.
  - Chapter 2: Contains burdens of proof; exceptions, defenses, and affirmative defenses to offenses; and presumptions used in prosecutions.
  - Chapter 3: Defines “criminal episode” and sets forth sentencing provisions for an accused found guilty of more than one offense arising out of a criminal episode.
- Title 2. General Principles of Criminal Responsibility
  - Chapter 6: Defines the criminal intent necessary for commission of criminal acts.
  - Chapter 7: Outlines ways in which one person may be responsible for the criminal acts of another person and includes provisions relating to corporate responsibility.
  - Chapter 8: Contains general defenses to criminal responsibility, such as insanity, intoxication, duress, entrapment, or age.

- Chapter 9: Lists justifications for criminal acts, including public duty, necessity, self-defense, and defense of another person; defense of property; and the amount of force that can be used by officers, parents, educators, or guardians against persons who have broken the law.
- Title 3. Punishments
  - Chapter 12: Divided into five subchapters dealing with punishments for different classes of offenses.
    - Subchapter A: Classifies offenses by felony (capital, first degree, second degree, third degree, or state jail) or misdemeanor (Class A, B, or C).
    - Subchapter B: Spells out the ordinary misdemeanor punishments.
    - Subchapter C: Details the punishments for the different classifications of felonies.
    - Subchapter D: Classifies offenses outside the Penal Code and defines exceptional sentences for repeat or habitual offenders.
    - Subchapter E: Describes the punishments available when a corporation or association has been found guilty of an offense.
- Title 4. Inchoate Offenses (An inchoate offense means an offense that is attempted but not completed.)
  - Chapter 15: Defines criminal attempt, conspiracy, and solicitation; and provides a renunciation defense (attempts to commit an offense but abandons the attempt and renounces the effort before the offense is actually committed).
  - Chapter 16: Defines offenses related to unlawful telephone interceptions, pen registers, or telephone taps.
- Title 5. Offenses Against the Person
  - Chapter 19: Defines homicide offenses, which include capital murder, murder, manslaughter, or criminally negligent homicide.
  - Chapter 20: Defines kidnapping and false imprisonment.
  - Chapter 20A: Defines trafficking of persons.
  - Chapter 21: Defines sexual offenses such as public lewdness, indecent exposure, indecency with a child, improper educator and student relationships, and improper photography or visual recording.
  - Chapter 22: Defines assaultive offenses that result in injury but not death, including assault, sexual assault, assault on a child, the elderly, or a disabled individual; endangering or abandoning a child; deadly conduct; terroristic threat; aiding suicide; tampering with consumer products; harassment of a public servant; and leaving a child in a vehicle.
- Title 6. Offenses Against the Family
  - Chapter 25: Defines offenses such as bigamy, incest, interference with child custody, sale of a child, harboring of a runaway; criminal nonsupport; and violation of certain protective orders or conditions of bond.

- Title 7. Offenses Against Property
  - Chapter 28: Contains the offenses of arson; criminal mischief; reckless damage of property; interference with railroad property; and graffiti.
  - Chapter 29: Defines the offense of robbery (theft from a person).
  - Chapter 30: Defines burglary of a habitation, building, vehicle, coin-operated or coin collection machines; and criminal trespass.
  - Chapter 31: Contains theft offenses, including theft of services or trade secrets, unauthorized use of motor vehicle, theft of cable services, theft by appropriation or worthless check; and unauthorized acquisition or transfer of certain financial information. The value of the property unlawfully appropriated determines the grade of offense and punishment.
  - Chapter 32: Defines the offenses of fraud, which include forgery, credit card abuse, and issuance of a bad check; commercial bribery; illegal recruitment of an athlete; and the passing of certain fraudulent documents.
  - Chapter 33: Defines computer crimes.
  - Chapter 33A: Defines telecommunications crimes.
  - Chapter 34: Defines money laundering crimes.
  - Chapter 35: Defines insurance fraud.
  - Chapter 35A: Defines Medicaid fraud.
- Title 8. Offenses Against Public Administration
  - Chapter 36: Concerns bribery offenses and includes coercion of public servants or voters, improper influence, tampering with a witness, obstruction or retaliation, acceptance of an honorarium, and gifts to public servants.

C. Basic Definitions

Definitions can be found throughout the Penal Code. When researching a particular offense, look at the beginning of the chapter to see if there are specific definitions for certain words. Understanding how a word is defined is helpful in determining how the offense is filed and what wording should be included on a complaint (charging instrument). General definitions are listed in Section 1.07 of the Penal Code.

Q. 85. Where are definitions found in the Penal Code? _____

D. How to Find Offenses

There are many ways to use the Penal Code. There are a few questions, however, to consider that can help narrow the scope of the search of the Penal Code:

- Who or what has been harmed? First, decide who or what has suffered because of the act. There are at least three possibilities.
  - If a person has been harmed, look to Titles 5 and 6 for the applicable offense.
  - If property has been harmed, look to Title 7.
  - If the harm is to public decency, safety, or health, look to Titles 8 through 11.
- What is the degree of harm?
  - The more serious offenses, such as murder, manslaughter, and kidnapping, are found at the beginning of Titles 5 and 6. In some instances, the seriousness of the injury determines the classification of the offense. An example of this is the offense of assault. Assault is a Class A misdemeanor if bodily injury was caused. If there was just physical contact, but no injury, and the person regarded the contact as offensive or provocative, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor. Municipal courts would have jurisdiction over the latter assault offense.
  - If property has been damaged, the amount of pecuniary loss determines the classification of the offense. Municipal courts have jurisdiction over the offense of criminal mischief if the damage is less than $100.
- What if harm is to society as a whole?
  - If no one or thing has been harmed, check to see if the offense involved a public official, governmental operation, or a witness. These are crimes against public administration, which are found in Title 8.
  - If the offense involved disorderly conduct or public indecency, look to Title 9.
  - If the offense involved weapons, gambling, public health, or intoxication or alcoholic beverages, look to Title 10. This is also where the offense of public intoxication is found.
  - If the offense involved organized crime activity, look to Title 11.

E. Presumption of Innocence

In a criminal case, the defendant does not have to prove that he or she is innocent, but is presumed to be innocent. A common opening statement by defense attorneys at trial is that the defendant could present no argument or evidence whatsoever and still be found not guilty. It is solely the burden of the State, represented by the prosecutor, to prove that the person is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt..

Q. 86. Explain presumption of innocence. _____

F. Conduct Constituting an Offense

Conduct does not constitute an offense unless it is defined as an offense by statute, municipal ordinance, order of a county commissioner's court, or rule authorized by and lawfully adopted under a statute. Sec. 1.03, P.C.

1. An Act or an Omission

A person commits an offense only if he or she voluntarily engages in conduct, including an act, an omission, or possession. Sec. 6.01, P.C. An act means a bodily movement, whether voluntary or involuntary, and includes speech. Sec. 1.07(a)(1), P.C. Omission means a failure to act when the person had a duty to act. Secs. 1.07(a)(34) and 6.01(c), P.C. Possession means actual care, custody, control, or management. Sec. 1.07(a)(39), P.C.

2. Culpable Mental State

A culpable mental state is the state of mind in which a person voluntarily engages in certain conduct or omits an act when there is a duty to act. Unless the definition of an offense does not require a culpable mental state, a person does not commit an offense unless he or she intentionally, knowingly, recklessly, or with criminal negligence engages in conduct as the definition of the offense requires. Sec. 6.02, P.C. If an offense does not prescribe a culpable mental state, but one is required because the definition of the offense does not dispense of the need for a culpable mental state, intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly is sufficient to establish criminal responsibility. Sec. 6.02(c), P.C. Offenses defined by municipal ordinances must have a culpable mental state if the offense is punishable by a fine of more than $500. Sec. 6.02(f), P.C.

Listed below are four culpable mental states.

- A person acts intentionally when it is his or her conscious objective or desire to engage in conduct or to cause the result. Sec. 6.03(a), P.C.
- A person acts knowingly when he or she is aware that the conduct is reasonably certain to cause the result. Sec. 6.03(b), P.C.
- A person acts recklessly when he or she is aware of, but consciously disregards, a substantial and unjustifiable risk that the circumstances exist or the result will occur. The risk must be of such a nature and degree that its disregard constitutes a gross deviation from the standard of care that an ordinary person would exercise under all the circumstances as viewed from the actor's standpoint. Sec. 6.03(c), P.C.
- A person acts with criminal negligence when he or she should be aware of a substantial and unjustifiable risk that the circumstances exist or the result will occur. The risk must be of such a nature and degree that the failure to perceive it constitutes a gross deviation from the standard of care that an ordinary person would exercise under all the circumstances as viewed from the actor's standpoint. Sec. 6.03(d), P.C.

3. Criminal Attempt

A person commits an offense if the person specifically intends to commit the offense and does an act amounting to more than mere preparation that tends, but failed, to effect the commission of the offense intended. An offense that is attempted, but fails, is one category lower than the offense attempted. Sec. 15.01, P.C.

4. Criminal Responsibility

a. Persons

A person is criminally responsible if the result would not have occurred but for his or her conduct. Sec. 6.04, P.C.

b. Corporations and Associations

When conduct constituting an offense is performed by an agent acting on behalf of a corporation or association and within the scope of his or her office or employment, the corporation or association is criminally responsible for the offense unless a statute plainly does not impose criminal responsibility on the corporation or association. Sec. 7.22, P.C. An agent means a director, officer, employee, or other person authorized to act on behalf of a corporation or association. Sec. 7.21, P.C.

G. Defenses

Chapter 8 contains general defenses to criminal responsibility. A defense to prosecution is labeled by the phrase: “It is a defense to prosecution... .” The prosecutor is not required to negate a defense in the charging instrument (complaint). The defendant must raise the defense, and it is not submitted to the jury (or considered by the judge) unless some evidence of the defense has been admitted to support it. With the evidence about the defense, the jury must acquit the defendant if there is any reasonable doubt that the defendant committed the offense. Sec. 2.03, P.C. It is a defense to prosecution that:

- the actor through mistake formed a reasonable belief about a matter of fact if his mistaken belief negated the kind of culpability required for commission of the offense (Sec. 8.02, P.C.); or
- the actor engaged in the conduct charged because he was induced to do so by a law enforcement agent using persuasion or other means likely to cause persons to commit the offense (Sec. 8.06, P.C.).

Some defenses are called affirmative defenses. The prosecutor need not negate affirmative defenses in the charging instrument (complaint), and the existence of an affirmative defense is not submitted to the jury unless the defendant introduces evidence supporting the defense. If the existence of an affirmative defense is submitted to the jury, the court shall charge the jury that the defendant must prove the affirmative defense by a preponderance of the evidence. Sec. 2.04, P.C. It is an affirmative defense to prosecution that:

- the actor, at the time of the conduct charged, as a result of severe mental disease or defect did not know that his or her conduct was wrong (Sec. 8.01, P.C.);
- the actor reasonably believed the conduct charged did not constitute a crime and acted in reasonable reliance upon a written interpretation of the law contained in an opinion of a court of record or made by a public official charged by law with responsibility for interpreting the law, such as the Texas Attorney General (Sec. 8.03, P.C.); or
- the actor was compelled to engage in the conduct by threat of imminent death or serious bodily injury to himself, herself, or another, or if the conduct is not a felony, was compelled by force or threat of force (Sec. 8.05, P.C.).

The following are not defenses to prosecution:

- that the actor was ignorant of the provisions of any law after the law has taken effect;
- that the actor was voluntarily intoxicated; and
- that the actor acted at the command or persuasion of his or her spouse, unless he or she acted under threat of imminent death, serious bodily injury to himself, herself, or another force, or threat of force.

Defenses are something the defendant must raise, or the defense is waived.

H. Preemption

No governmental subdivision or agency may enact or enforce a law that makes any conduct covered by the Penal Code an offense subject to a criminal penalty. Sec. 1.08, P.C. This means that a city could not pass a city ordinance criminalizing public intoxication because it is already an offense under state law.

I. Punishments

Chapter 12 lists punishments for different classifications of offenses. Offenses are designated as felonies or misdemeanors.

1. Misdemeanors

Misdemeanors are classified into three categories according to the relative seriousness of the offense: Class A misdemeanors, Class B misdemeanors, and Class C misdemeanors. An offense in the Penal Code without specification as to punishment or category is a Class C misdemeanor. A Class A misdemeanor offense shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $4,000, confinement in jail for a term not to exceed one year, or both fine and confinement. A Class B misdemeanor shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $2,000, confinement in jail for a term not to exceed 180 days, or both fine and confinement. A Class C misdemeanor shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $500. Secs. 12.21, 12.22, and 12.23, P.C.

2. Felonies

Felonies are also classified according to relative seriousness of the offense. There are five categories: capital felonies; felonies of the first degree; felonies of the second degree; felonies of the third degree; and state jail felonies. The range of punishment for felonies is life imprisonment or death for capital felonies; imprisonment for up to 99 years but not less than five years and may also include a fine not to exceed $10,000 for first degree felonies; imprisonment for up to 20 years but not less than two years and may also include a fine not to exceed $10,000 for second degree felonies; imprisonment for up to 10 years but not less than two years and may also include a fine not to exceed $10,000 for third degree felonies; and confinement in a state jail for not more than two years but not less than 180 days and may include a fine not to exceed $10,000 for state jail felonies. Secs. 12.31, 12.32, 12.32, 12.34, and 12.35, P.C.

3. Offenses Outside of Penal Code

Section 12.41 provides for classification of offenses outside the Penal Code. If imprisonment in a penitentiary is affixed to the offense as a possible punishment, the offense is a felony of the third degree. If the offense is not a felony and confinement in a jail is affixed to the offense as a possible punishment, the offense is a Class B misdemeanor. If the offense is punishable by fine only, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor. Keep in mind that if the Class C misdemeanor is defined in the Penal Code, the maximum fine is $500. A Class C misdemeanor outside of the Penal Code is not controlled by the $500 set out in the Penal Code.

4. Punishments for Corporations and Associations

If a corporation or association is adjudged guilty of an offense that provides a penalty consisting of a fine only, a court may sentence the corporation or association to pay a fine in an amount fixed by the court, not to exceed the fine provided by the statute. Sec. 12.51(a), P.C.

If a corporation or association is found guilty of an offense that provides a penalty including imprisonment or that provides no specific penalty, a court may sentence the corporation or association to pay a fine in an amount fixed by the court, not to exceed:

- $20,000 if the offense is a felony of any category (if the court finds that the corporation or association gained money or property or caused personal injury or death, property damage or other loss, the court may require a fine in an amount fixed by the court not to exceed double the amount gained or caused by the corporation or association to be lost or damaged, whichever is greater);
- $10,000 if the offense is a Class A or a Class B misdemeanor (if the court finds that the corporation or association gained money or property or caused personal injury or death, property damage, or other loss, the court may require a fine in an amount fixed by the court not to exceed double the amount gained or caused by the corporation or association to be lost or damaged, whichever is greater);
- $2,000 if the offense is a Class C misdemeanor; or
- $50,000 if as a result of an offense classified as a felony or Class A misdemeanor, an individual suffers serious bodily injury or death.

Also the court may require a corporation or association to give notice of the conviction to any person the court deems appropriate. On conviction of a corporation or association, the court shall notify the Texas Attorney General of that fact.

J. Age Affecting Criminal Responsibility

Section 8.07 describes the age a person must be before facing prosecution in a criminal court. A person may not be prosecuted for or convicted of any offense that he or she committed when younger than 15 years of age except for:

- perjury or aggravated perjury;
- violation of a traffic offense under Chapter 729 of the Transportation Code, which involves the operation of a motor vehicle by a minor and defines a minor as anyone under the age of 17, except for an offense punishable by any time in jail or:
  - under Section 550.021, T.C. (accident involving personal injury or death);
  - under Section 550.022, T.C. (accident involving damage to vehicle);
  - under Section 550.024, T.C. (duty on striking unattended vehicle);
- a misdemeanor punishable by fine only;
- a violation of a penal ordinance of a political subdivision; or
- a violation of a penal statute that is a lesser included offense of a capital felony, an aggravated controlled substance felony, or a felony of the first degree for which the person is transferred to the court under Section 54.02 of the Family Code for prosecution if the person committed the offense when 14 years of age or older.

Unless the juvenile court waives jurisdiction under Section 54.02 of the Family Code and certifies the individual for criminal prosecution, or the juvenile court has previously waived jurisdiction under that section and certified the individual for criminal prosecution, a person may not be prosecuted for or convicted of any offense committed before reaching 17 years of age except for an offense listed above. Sec. 8.07(b), P.C.

In 2013, the Legislature amended Section 8.07 to make clear that although children under the age of 15 can be criminally prosecuted for the offenses listed above, children under the age of 10 are not to be prosecuted or convicted of fine-only offenses or city ordinance violations. Sec. 8.07(d), P.C. The same Legislature also created a presumption that children ages 10 to 14 (inclusive) are presumed not to be criminally responsible for any misdemeanors punishable by a fine only or a violation of a penal ordinance of a political subdivision (with the exception of juvenile curfew ordinances). This presumption can be refuted by a preponderance of evidence showing that the child is morally blameworthy. Notably, the presumption would have no application to fine-only traffic offenses created by state law or city ordinance, and the prosecution would neither be required to prove that the child knew that the act was illegal at the time it occurred or understood the legal consequences of the offense. Sec. 8.07(e), P.C.

No person in any case can be punished by death for an offense committed while he or she was younger than 18 years of age. Sec. 8.07(c), P.C.

The Legislature also added Section 8.08, which provides guidance for cases in which the child defendant has a mental illness or developmental disability. On motion by the State, the defendant, a person standing in parental relation to the defendant, or on the court's own motion, a court with jurisdiction of a misdemeanor punishable by fine only or a violation of a penal ordinance of a political subdivision shall determine if there is probable cause to believe that a child, including a child with mental illness or developmental disability, (1) lacks the capacity to understand the proceedings or to assist in their own defense and is unfit to proceed or (2) lacks substantial capacity either to appreciate the wrongfulness of the child's own conduct or to conform their conduct to the requirements of the law. If the court determines that probable cause exists, after giving notice to the prosecution, the court may dismiss the complaint. The prosecution has the right to appeal such determinations. The scope of Section 8.08 is limited to Class C misdemeanors (other than traffic offenses).

K. Elements of an Offense

The elements of an offense include the following:

- the forbidden conduct;
- the required culpability;
- the required result; and
- the negation of any exception to the offense.

The forbidden conduct includes facts that establish a particular act as an offense. Each offense will have its own set of facts. A peace officer or prosecutor has to determine during an investigation if a person’s act falls within the forbidden conduct established for a particular offense.

In a municipal court, the offense must have occurred in the territorial limits of the city to give the municipal court jurisdiction over the crime. Art. 45.019, C.C.P. Some crimes must be committed in a public place and would not be a crime if committed in a private residence, for example, the offense of disorderly conduct–vulgar language.

All of the elements of a crime must be alleged in a complaint. See the following two examples.

The elements of a Class C assault by threat would be:

- a person;
- location (city and county) (jurisdiction);
- date of offense;
- intentionally or knowingly (the culpable mental state); and
- threatens another, including the person’s spouse, with imminent bodily injury (the forbidden conduct).

The elements of the offense of disorderly conduct–vulgar language would be:

- a person;
- location (city and county) (jurisdiction);
- date of offense;
- intentionally or knowingly (the culpable mental state);
- in a public place;
- uses abusive, indecent, profane, or vulgar language (the forbidden conduct); and
- which, by its very utterance, tends to incite an immediate breach of the peace (the result).

Although it is important to review the elements of the offense in order to better understand the law behind charging criminal offenses, note that the prosecutor is responsible for actually drafting the complaint language.

L. Class C Misdemeanor Offenses

The following is a partial list of Class C misdemeanor offenses in the Penal Code. When researching a particular offense, check the statute for specific information on the elements of the offense, definitions, defenses, exceptions, and in some instances, specific handling procedures.

- Section 22.01(a)(2) and (3) – Assault
  - (a)(2) A person commits an offense if the person intentionally or knowingly threatens another with imminent bodily injury, including the person’s spouse.
  - (a)(3) A person commits an offense if the person intentionally or knowingly causes physical contact with another when the person knows or should reasonably believe that the other will regard the contact as offensive or provocative.
  - If subsection (a)(3) is committed against an elderly or disabled person, it is a Class A misdemeanor. It is a Class B misdemeanor if the offense is committed by a person who is not a sports participant against a person the actor knows is a sports participant either while the participant is performing duties or responsibilities in the participant’s capacity as a sports participants or in retaliation for a duty or responsibility within the participant’s capacity as a sports participant.
- Section 22.08 – Aiding Suicide
  - A person commits an offense if, with intent to promote or assist the commission of suicide by another, he or she aids or attempts to aid the other to commit or attempt to commit suicide.
  - If the person’s conduct causes suicide or attempted suicide that results in serious bodily injury, the offense is a state jail felony.
- Section 22.10 – Leaving a Child in a Vehicle
  - A person commits an offense if he or she intentionally or knowingly leaves a child in a motor vehicle for longer than five minutes, knowing that the child is younger than seven years of age, and not attended by an individual in the vehicle who is 14 years of age or older.
- Section 28.03 – Criminal Mischief
  - A person commits an offense if, without the effective consent of the owner, he or she intentionally or knowingly damages or destroys the tangible property of the owner, tampers with the tangible property of the owner and causes pecuniary loss or substantial inconvenience to the owner or a third person, or makes markings, including inscriptions, slogan, drawings, or painting on the tangible property of the owner.

- If the pecuniary loss is less than $100, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor.
- Section 28.04 – Reckless Damage or Destruction
  - A person commits an offense if, without the effective consent of the owner, he or she recklessly damages or destroys property of the owner.
- Section 31.03 – Theft
  - A person commits an offense if the person unlawfully appropriates property with intent to deprive the owner of property.
  - If the value of the property is less than $100, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor.
- Section 31.04 – Theft of Service
  - A person commits theft of service if, with intent to avoid payment for service that the person knows is provided only for compensation:
    - the person intentionally or knowingly secures performance of the service by deception, threat, or false token;
    - having control over the disposition of services of another to which the person is not entitled, he or she intentionally or knowingly diverts the other’s services to his or her own benefit or to the benefit of another not entitled to them;
    - having control of personal property under a written rental agreement, the person holds the property beyond the expiration of the rental period without the effective consent of the owner of the property, thereby depriving the owner of the property of its use in further rentals; or
    - the person intentionally or knowingly secures the performance of the service by agreeing to provide compensation and, after the service is rendered, fails to make full payment after receiving notice demanding payment.
  - If the value of the stolen service is less than $100, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor.
- Section 32.41 – Issuance of Bad Check
  - A person commits an offense if he or she issues or passes a check or similar sight order for the payment of money knowing that the issuer does not have sufficient funds in or on deposit with the bank or other drawee for the payment in full of the check or order as well as all other checks or orders outstanding at the time of issuance.
  - If the check or sight order was issued or passed for a child support payment established under court order, the offense is a Class B misdemeanor.
- Section 36.05 – Tampering with Witness
  - A person commits an offense if, with intent to influence the witness, he or she offers, confers, or agrees to confer any benefit on a witness or prospective witness in an official proceeding or coerces a witness or prospective witness in an official proceeding to testify falsely, to withhold any testimony, information, document, or thing, to elude legal process summoning the person to testify or supply evidence, to absent him or herself from an official proceeding to which he or she has been legally summonsed, or to abstain from, discontinue, or delay the prosecution of another.

- A witness or prospective witness in an official proceeding commits an offense if he or she knowingly solicits, accepts, or agrees to accept any benefit on the representation or understanding that he or she will do any of the things mentioned above.
- If the official proceeding is part of the prosecution of a criminal case, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor if the most serious charge in the proceeding is a Class C misdemeanor. If the proceeding is one involving family violence or the tampering involves an act of family violence, it is not a Class C misdemeanor, even if the criminal case was.
- Section 37.10 – Tampering with Governmental Record
  - A person commits an offense if he or she knowingly makes a false entry in or false alteration of a governmental record; makes, presents, or uses any record, document, or thing with knowledge of its falsity and with intent that it be taken as a genuine governmental record; intentionally destroys, conceals, removes, or otherwise impairs the verity, legibility, or availability of a governmental record; possesses, sells, or offers to sell a governmental record or a blank governmental record form with intent that it be used unlawfully; makes, presents, or uses a governmental record with knowledge of its falsity; or possesses, sells, or offers to sell a governmental record or a blank governmental record form with knowledge that it was obtained unlawfully.
  - A person commits a Class C misdemeanor offense if the governmental record is a governmental record that is required for enrollment of a student in a school district and was used by the actor to establish the residency of the student.
- Section 38.02 – Failure to Identify
  - A person commits an offense if he or she intentionally refuses to give his or her name, residence address, or date of birth to a peace officer who has lawfully arrested the person and requested the information.
  - If the person is not a fugitive from justice, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor.
- Section 38.10 – Bail Jumping and Failure to Appear
  - A person lawfully released from custody, with or without bail, on condition that he or she subsequently appear commits an offense if he or she intentionally or knowingly fails to appear in accordance with the terms of his or her release.

Section 311.032 of the Government Code provides that if a statute contains a severability clause, that provision prevails in interpreting that statute. That means that should a court declare part of a statute containing a severability clause unconstitutional, the other parts would still be valid if they are self-sustaining and capable of separate enforcement without regard to the invalid portion. Some statutes have a provision for non-severability, which means that if part of the statute is declared unconstitutional, the whole statute is invalid. Other statutes do not contain severability clauses. If any provision of one of these statutes or their application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the statute if the provisions can be effective without the invalid provisions or application.
